Good Hearts Open New Doors

SIOUX FALLS, SD -

Phil and Paula Off have been volunteering with Habitat for Humanity for 12 years now. They say they're humbled that they are here for this dedication.

"Its just a great pleasure to be up here and be a part of this community for the past few weeks," Phil Off said.

400 volunteers spent the last several days building these homes. Habitat for Humanity's Evan Ingebrigtsen says he's excited about the accomplishment.

"Its unbelievable that we could build 3 houses in nine days," Ingebrigtsen said.

It wasn't just an incredible feat for volunteers, new homeowners are floored by the work finished in half a week.

And as Jenece Holland opened her door for the first time she said her house became a home.

"I have a plaque they gave me that says the story begins here," Holland said. "This home is where our story is beginning."

And Habitat for Humanity says this isn't the last time Blitz Builders and volunteers will create construction zones.

"We see a huge need in this community and were going to continue to build more houses," Ingebrigtsen said.
